HONORING TOMORROW’S COMMUNICATION LEADERS

The two best days for our faculty are the day that new students come into the Department - bright with expectation and a little uncertain; and the day that they graduate — self-assured, accomplished young adults, ready to take on the practical and moral demands of a professional in the field of communication. We can only imagine that your pride in your graduate’s accomplishments far outweighs ours.

As they enter a new and exciting phase in life, we anticipate hearing more about their accomplishments in the diverse fields where NCSU Communication graduates will make their mark.

Because the Department of Communication faculty is excited about the future of our graduates we have developed a program to recognize their NCSU tenure in a permanent way. In keeping with the NC State tradition of commemorative bricks, we have created a Communication Walk of Honor, directly in front of Winston Hall where Communication students take most of their classes. Each brick can carry an honoree’s name, date of graduation, and a brief sentiment. We hope eventually to have hundreds of bricks carrying our graduates’ names forward in NC State history.

We invite you to express your pride in your graduate by participating in our Communication Walk of Honor. All proceeds from the sale of bricks directly benefit the Communication Department and our students. For more information about this program please go to www.chass.ncsu.edu/bricks

Congratulations on the graduation of your loved one from the Department of Communication at NC State.
